

Where in the World?

© Birmingham Museums Trust and the Potteries Museum and Art Gallery, Stoke-on-Trent

The Anglo-Saxons are known for being skilled craftworkers, making both precious and everyday objects. They sourced materials from near and far and recycled materials from older items. In small groups, using an atlas and or globe, locate some of the places the Anglo- Saxon people were connected to:

Gemstones

Garnet From Roman Object, Czech Republic, Indian subcontinent

Purple Amethyst Indian sub continent, Russia

Emeralds Egypt traded to Rome

Lapis Lazuli Afghanistan

Metals

Gold from Byzantine gold coins

Silver Britain, Europe, Poland,

Copper Wales, Devon Cornwall

Tin mined in Deon, Cornwall,

Iron The Weald, Forest of Dean, Northamptonshire

Lead Derbyshire, the Mendips, Northumberland and Durham

Other Materials

Wool Britain

Ivory from walrus tusks

Bone from whale bone

Amber coast of East Anglia and Baltic coast

Glass recycled from Roman objects and made locally eg Winchester, Lincoln

Vellum Britain

Jet Whitby in North Yorkshire